

Hope, Action, and Justice: WEE 2025 Leaves a Lasting Global Footprint

Uniting for a Greener, Fairer Tomorrow at the World Environment Expo

In the face of escalating climate change and mounting demands for climate justice, the urgency to act has never felt more profound. The global community is awakening to the reality that the climate crisis is not only a threat to ecosystems—but also a reflection of deep-rooted social and economic inequalities. It is within this spirit of hope, responsibility, and solidarity that WEE 2025 was convened.

The World Environment Expo (WEE 2025), jointly organized by the Green Society of India (GSI) and Indian Exhibition Services (IES), and inaugurated by Manjinder Singh Sirsa, Delhi Environment Minister, has officially concluded — a powerful convergence of purpose, innovation, and climate action.

Held from 4th to 6th June 2025, WEE 2025 transformed the capital into a sanctuary of solidarity for climate defenders, eco-entrepreneurs, and community voices. It wasn't just an exhibition — it was a rallying cry for urgent climate action rooted in justice and inclusion.

Confronting Climate Change Through Climate Justice

WEE 2025 also stood as a testament to the growing global consensus that climate change is not only an environmental challenge but a profound social one. As the impacts of rising temperatures, erratic weather, and resource scarcity disproportionately affect vulnerable communities, the call for climate justice has never been louder.

Ensuring that the benefits of sustainability reach everyone — regardless of geography, income, or background — was a message deeply woven into every discussion, expo, and initiative showcased during the event.

Voices of Change

From youth activists to rural innovators, from corporate leaders to marginalized communities, the voices at WEE 2025 echoed one truth — climate change is not just an environmental issue, but a human one. The event amplified the call for climate justice: fair access to resources, equitable climate solutions, and protection for those most vulnerable to the climate crisis.

Beyond the Expo

WEE 2025 may have wrapped up, but its message endures. The conversations, connections, and commitments made here are paving the way for systemic, just, and sustainable transformation. In an age where the climate emergency disproportionately affects the poor, the young, and the voiceless, platforms like WEE are beacons of both innovation and compassion.

A Salute to Sustainability and Solidarity

Together, we step forward — not just as advocates of green technology, but as allies in a global movement for environmental justice. Inspired, empowered, and united, we commit to building a cleaner, fairer, and more sustainable future for all.
